Parking is available on the library side of the street, or in the small lot behind the library, on the library side only please, as the driveway is shared with the house next door. From the Iron Bridge in downtown Shelburne Falls, cross over the Deerfield River to the Buckland side. Turn left onto State Street and go past McCuskers' Market. Continue straight up the hill; State Street will turn into Ashfield Street. Pass the Salmon Falls Artisan's Showroom and cross the railroad tracks. Continue up the hill a short ways, you will see a large brick building on the left, the old school (please do not park in their lot, it's private parking). The next house on the left, sitting just above the school, is #73, a brown and pink house, which is the home of the Rise Up Center for Movement & Arts. There is no sign on the house for the Center, but you will see the house number.

Please park in the driveway if there is space, pulling in as tightly as possible to allow as many cars as will fit. Additional parking is in the St. Joseph Church parking lot, or on the small side street that goes off to the left at the corner, up toward the Church. If parking on the side street, please park up beyond the next-door neighbor's house only, leaving a wide berth next to their driveway for cars backing out onto the street. Please DO NOT PARK on Ashfield Street either at the corner or below, or in the brick building's lot below. Enter at the front door; the studio is to the right.
